EDITOR: Jojo – Wrong key [shorty]

One day I've heard a work story from my colleague about a customer which has called, because the internet was too slow or something like this.. No, that's wrong, it was about the wlan connection. He couldn't connect the computer over wlan with the modem.

My colleague has searched with him what's wrong by the connection. The error was, that the customer doesn't know the wlan key. Normally is this key on the bottom side of the modem/router.

The client sounds like drunken talking weird shit. One time laughing the next time worry... Wtf?

My colleague has solved the problem and the customer told him at the end of the conversation "Thank you for help, my day was so ruff I've had for about half an hour ago a heart attack, that's why I sounds so freaky..."
